Treat Jaundice at Home with a Home PhotoTherapy Rental

Infant Jaundice

Each year, millions of newborns experience a condition known as infant jaundice. This typically occurs at birth or within their first week. Jaundice is characterized by a yellowing of the skin and the whites of the eyes, and is caused by an excess of bilirubin in the bloodstream. Although a common occurrence that typically requires minimal action, there are cases in which infant jaundice is indicative of an underlying and serious issue. Some conditions that display jaundice characteristics and call for immediate intervention include liver disease, sepsis, blocked bile duct or bowel, and hepatitis.

Treatment for a newborn's jaundice is to expose the child to phototherapy. Phototherapy consists of shining light onto the skin. The illumination breaks down the excess bilirubin, thereby decreasing its level. In years past, phototherapy treatments took place in the hospital in which your child was born. Now, however, you can rent a portable home phototherapy unit, at Home Therapy. (www.hometherapy.com) also known as a Firefly Phototherapy at for at-home use.
